CINAHL Plus with Full Text

CINAHL is the Cumulative Index to Nursing and Allied Health Literature
This database provides access to articles from journals in medicine, nursing, and health

Access

• Begin at the Library homepage: (http://www.jsu.edu/library/)
• Click the List of Electronic Resources and Databases link near the center of the page. (http://www.jsu.edu/library/resources/index.html)
• On the Electronic Resources page, click on or scroll to Frequently Used Databases, then click on CINAHL Plus with Full Text.
• Alternately, you can also click on Title, and type CINAHL in the search box, or click on C, and scroll down to CINAHL Plus with Full Text or go to the direct link at https://libguides.jsu.edu/resources/cinahl
• This database is also linked in Nursing subject guides such as http://libguides.jsu.edu/dnp/

Searching

• CINAHL Plus with Full Text opens to the Advanced Search screen.

  • Type your search term(s) in the box. Adding additional terms will help narrow results.
• Other options you can choose to include are age, evidence-based limiter, type of publication and many others. Scroll farther down the search page for these.
• If you need peer reviewed or research articles, scroll down to Limit Your Results and select the “Peer Reviewed” and/or “Research Articles” options.) You may restrict a search to Academic Journals as well.
Results

- You will get a list of results with your search terms. (See above)
- Some of the citations will have links to the full text of the article. You can access the article by clicking on HTML full text or PDF Full Text.
- Click the title of the article to open the full record. From there you may e-mail, print, or save the article, using the icons on the Tools menu on the right sidebar. You may also export the citation to RefWorks.

Locating Items

- If the article you need is not available in full text, Click on the Full Text Finder link underneath the article to find it in another database.
- If the journal is available in print, you will need to use the online JaxCat catalog, the first box on the homepage, to get the call number for a print journal. The link to Check Library’s Catalog for Holdings under an article in the results list searches the catalog.
- Another option is to type an article title in the Search Discovery box, the second search box on the Library homepage. This will search several online databases at one time. If the article is available in an online journal, there will be a link to access it through JSU databases.
- If the article is not available through library resources, graduate students can use Interlibrary Loan to obtain a copy from another library. (Sometimes there may be a charge for ILL) A link is on the homepage on the right side under Quick Links. http://www.jsu.edu/library/forms/ill_request_form.html
